

Bulletins and Journals on Sustainability in Higher Education

AASHE Bulletin

A weekly compilation of news, opportunities, new resources, job postings, and events related to sustainability in higher education. Produced by the Association for the Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education, the Bulletin is great for staying current with sustainability developments on campuses as well as upcoming events.

AASHE Higher Education Sustainability Reviews

An annual review of campus sustainability efforts comprised of news stories and resources collected from AASHE Bulletin. Produced by the Association for the Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education, these reports provide a valuable snapshot of emerging work on campuses throughout the country.

The Declaration

From 1996 to 2007, The Declaration offered in-depth articles on current sustainability initiatives in curriculum, research, operations and outreach at higher education institutions around the world. The Declaration was published twice a year by the Association of University Leaders for a Sustainable Future; its on-line articles are still timely and reveal the first major sustainability initiatives at colleges and universities.

International Journal of Sustainability in Higher Education \(IJSHE\)

The first fully refereed academic journal for the analysis of sustainability programs and initiatives at colleges and universities worldwide. Published quarterly since 2000 by Emerald Group Publishing Limited in conjunction with the Association of University Leaders for a Sustainable Future, the IJSHE features papers on sustainability project including curriculum change; short cases studies; book reviews, and news items. While most articles feature activities in Europe and North America, the editorial board welcomes material from throughout the world.

Sustainability: The Journal of Record

Sustainability: The Journal of Record is pitched to a broader audience than the IJSHE; it reports and comments on sustainability initiatives not only in academia, but business, government, foundations, and the media.

Solutions – for a Sustainable and Desirable Future

Solutions is a “non-profit and online publication devoted to showcasing bold and innovative ideas for solving the world’s integrated ecological, social, and economic problems.” Its intent is to be both a peer-reviewed journal and a popular magazine that will have broad appeal both to professionals and the lay public—and to students! And, its commitment is to stress solutions.

Yes! Magazine

YES! Magazine “reframes the biggest problems of our time in terms of their solutions.” An initiative of the Positive Futures Network here in Washington State, Yes! articles and news can be found both online and in print through a quarterly magazine. Broad in its reach and written for lay readers, Yes! offers timely stories about path-breaking initiatives and creative change-makers.
